and those who are really "fly" themselves will hasten to put in the screen doors as a protection to the home. Flies are not only annoying, but dangerous, because germ-bearing. Morris & Co. are moving their stock of goods from the Freeman building to the A. M. Morris building, formerly occupied by the postoffice. Read their new advertisement today.

Mrs. P. W. Arnett is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Richey. Mrs. Arnett is well known to our readers as Mrs. Flora Latham. She was married several weeks ago to Mr. Arnett, a traveling salesman.

Perry Durham has moved his stock of goods from the building at Jordania sidetrack to the room formerly occupied by Mr. Henry near the Seneca oil mill. Mr. Durham recently came here from Pickens county. —Seneca Journal.

Through the kindness of Prof. Frank Welborn we had the pleasure of attending a Masonic rally at Clemson College last week. More than 300 Masons were present. President Riggs of Clemson became a Master Mason that night. —H.

Olin Craig, one of the hustling Craigs from over on Keowee, was in Pickens one day last week with a load of twenty O. I. C. pigs, which he sold here at $5 and $10 each. He says he has twenty more and it is no trouble to find a good market for good stock.

We understand that Messrs. Julius Boggs and J. M. Smith have sold the Palmetto Pharmacy at Easley to Messrs. W. M. and H. C. Hagood and that Dr. Jim Myers, who once before conducted this drug store, will come back to Easley and take charge of it.

Oscar K. Mauldin, a prominent member of the Greenville bar, made a most interesting talk to the men of Pickens in the Methodist church here Sunday afternoon. Up until about six weeks ago Mr. Mauldin was a man that people frequently referred to as a "rounder," but he became converted and is proving a power for good.

A certain bachelor of the Mt. Carmel section on a recent Sunday was with a young lady for the first time in quite a while. And on Monday morning he was out trying to buy potato slips. The next Sunday he attended the singing and on the following Monday was out trying to buy some pigs. It looks like a real case of going to house-keeping.

W. D. Spearman, a prominent citizen of the Brushy Creek section of Anderson county and well known in Pickens, got his right leg broken just above the ankle and his right arm broken just below his elbow Thursday when an automobile in which he was riding turned turtle. Mr. Spearman was with Anderson county officers carrying Asa Kay, a negro, to jail when the car turned over. Kay was accused of aiding in the escape of Steve Lesley, the negro convict who attempted to assault a white girl in Anderson county Tuesday of last week. Lesley has not been caught.

Editors Hedron of the Spartanburg Herald, Booker of the Spartanburg Journal and Hiott of The Pickens Sentinel were delighted spectators at the opening of Greenville's white way, and rumor has it that they have applied for naturalization papers and will avail themselves of the immemorial privilege of the ransomed sinner.

A Grave Question

Belton Journal.

A Mr. Graves is running for coroner of Anderson county. Sounds like he ought to have the job. —Pickens Sentinel. Some few weeks ago B. H. Graves, brother of the editor of the Journal announced that he would be in the race for coroner, but after giving the matter "grave" consideration he decided not to make the race.

Moving Forward

Greenville News.

Bright with hope is the educational situation in South Carolina today. At Pickens Court House Friday afternoon Governor Manning delivered a brief but stirring address on education to a thoroughly appreciative audience of citizens of that "independent state" that lies beneath the azure peaks like a verdant carpet. Although South Carolina is far behind in education when compared with the rest of the country, the governor cited statistics to show that the number of illiterates in proportion to population is steadily decreasing in certain Southern states, ours among them, as compared with the figures for certain Northern states. Moreover, he pointed out that 1,400 out of 2,000 schools in this state are taxing themselves for additional aid for school purposes. A special plea was voiced by the governor in behalf of better compensation for teachers and for their better training for efficiency.
